The Riva Chair

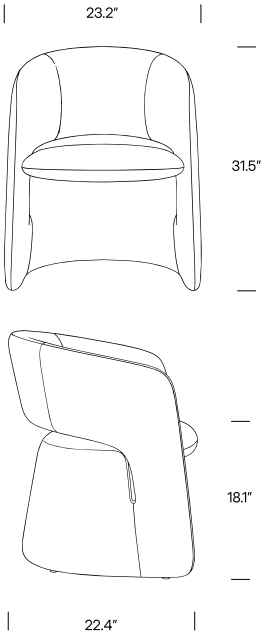

The Riva Chair is drawn as a single form. A curved back sweeps down into enclosing side panels and continues to the floor, where the upholstery flares outward and meets the ground directly — no legs, no exposed frame, no hardware. An open gap runs between the underside of the back and the rear of the seat, letting light through where most upholstered chairs stay solid. Tan full-grain leather is drawn taut over the curves and closed with piped, single-stitched seams — a dining chair that reads as one continuous line from every side.

MATERIALS:

Frame:	Kiln-dried hardwood, fully concealed within the upholstery
Backrest:	Curved shell wrapping into enclosing side panels, upholstered inside and out
Padding:	High-resilience polyurethane foam, moulded to the contour of the shell
Seat:	Shaped cushion with high-density foam over a solid base
Cover:	Tan full-grain leather, single-needle stitched with piped seams
Base:	Upholstered flared foot, no exposed legs or hardware
Foot Caps:	Scratch-proof glides, floor-safe

FEATURES:

Continuous Wrapped Back:	One curve runs from the shoulder down into the side panel without a break, giving the chair its silhouette from every angle
Open Back Gap:	A clear opening between the underside of the back and the rear of the seat lets light through and keeps a fully upholstered form from reading heavy
Piped Seam Detailing:	Single-stitched piping traces the sides and back, holding the leather taut across the curves
Flared Upholstered Base:	The side panels widen toward the floor and meet it directly, giving a broad, stable footprint with no visible legs
Enclosing Sides:	The back sweeps forward to support the elbow without adding width at the table
Maintenance:	Wipe leather with a soft dry cloth and condition periodically; keep out of prolonged direct sunlight
Assembly:	No assembly required
